

OPERATION 'BLUE ROOF'

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has asked the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to provide temporary plastic roof coverings for some homes with damaged roofs through a program called "Operation Blue Roof."

If your roof is damaged, you may be eligible for this temporary fix at no cost. In order to receive the temporary covering, your house must have a shingled roof with an incline or slope. Houses with flat, tiled or concrete roofs will not qualify. Homeowners will be required to sign a "Right of Entry" document which allows Army Corps staff to assess roof damage.
